

Eva Pöpplein
Computermusician,
Sound engineer

Born in 1978 in München, she started her musical education at the age of 5 on recorder, piano and violin. From 1997 to 2003 she studied Tonmeister (recording engineer) at the University of Music and Performing Arts Vienna with Jürg Jecklin. She lives in Cologne and works as sound engineer and as computer musician (free improvised music, compositions of electronic music for opera-, theatreproductions and radio/radioplay, radioart). She has been working with electric bassist Janko Hanushevsky in their highly productive duo Merzouga. Since the end of 2006 she has been working as sound-engineer for the nationwide radiostation Deutschlandfunk in Cologne. Since 2008 she has been teaching classes at the Fachhochschule Darmstadt, Department Media.

www.merzougamusic.com

www.myspace.com/merzougamusic

Foto: © Jörg Küster | www.joergkuester.com